Compliance

This policy complies with the statutory requirement laid out in the SEND Code of Practice 0-25 (June 2014) and has been written with reference to the following guidance and documents:

- Equality Act 2010: advice to schools DfE Feb 2013
- SEND Code of Practice (June 2014)
- School SEN Information Report Regulations (2014)
- Statutory Guidance on Supporting pupils at school with medical conditions (April 2014)
- The National Curriculum in England Key Stage 1 and 2 framework document (September 2013)
- Safeguarding Policy

- Accessibility plan
- Teachers Standards 2012

At present, in the UK the legal framework remains based on:

- Children and Families Act 2014
- SEND Code of Practice

The government has consulted on major SEND reforms through its 2026 White Paper and SEND consultation, but most changes still require legislation and implementation. The current EHCP system remains in place.

What does this mean for schools right now?

For the 2025–26 and 2026–27 academic years:

- Existing SEND law still applies.
- EHCP rights remain unchanged.
- The graduated approach (Assess–Plan–Do–Review) remains unchanged.
- Schools must continue to follow the current SEND Code of Practice.
- Any future reforms will be phased in over several years.

Aims and Objectives of the Policy

- To raise the aspirations of and expectations for all pupils with SEND by removing barriers to learning, thus allowing all pupils to fulfil their social, emotional and intellectual potential.
- To provide a broad, balanced curriculum which every child can access at an appropriate level.
- To actively involve every member of the school community, including parents and pupils, in the education of pupils with SEND.
- To encourage a code of positive behaviour which promotes consideration of the needs of others, and values the contribution of each member of the school community.
- To provide a Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator (SENDCO) who will provide support and advice for all staff working with special educational needs pupils.

Admissions Policy

The school does not discriminate against the admission of pupils on the grounds of special educational needs or disability. The school does not presently have any special arrangements for access to the buildings by pupils with physical difficulties. School does not have any specialist provision for a particular type of SEND.

Definition of Special Educational Needs (SEN)

“A pupil has SEND where their learning difficulty or disability calls for special educational provision, namely provision different from or additional to that normally available to pupils of the same age.

Making higher quality teaching normally available to the whole class is likely to mean that fewer pupils will require such support.” (Code of Practice 6.15)

Our school assesses each pupil’s current skills and levels of attainment on entry, building on information from previous settings and key stages where appropriate. At the same time, we should consider evidence that a pupil may have a disability under the Equality Act 2010 and, if so, what reasonable adjustments may need to be made for them.

Class teachers, supported by the SENDCO, should make regular assessments of progress for all pupils. These should seek to identify pupils making less than expected progress given their age and individual circumstances. This can be characterized by progress which:

- is significantly slower than that of their peers starting from the same baseline
- fails to match or better the child’s previous rate of progress
- fails to close the attainment gap between the child and their peers
- widens the attainment gap

It can include progress in areas other than attainment – for instance where a pupil needs to make additional progress with wider development or social needs in order to make a successful transition to adult life.

The first response to such progress should be high quality teaching targeted at their areas of weakness. Where progress continues to be less than expected the class or subject teacher, working with the SENDCO, should assess whether the child has SEND. While informally gathering evidence (including the views of the pupil and their parents) we should not delay in putting in place extra teaching or other rigorous interventions designed to secure better progress, where required. The pupil’s response to such support can help identify their particular needs.

For some children, SEND can be identified at an early age. However, for other children and young people difficulties become evident only as they develop. All those who work with children and young people should be alert to emerging difficulties and respond early. In particular, parents know their children best and it is important that all professionals listen and understand when parents express concerns about their child's development. They should also listen to and address any concerns raised by children and young people themselves.

Definition of Special Educational Provision

Special educational provision means:

For a child of over two years, educational provision that is additional to, or otherwise different from, the educational provision made generally for children of the child's age in maintained schools, other than special schools in the area.

The range of SEND is very wide, from relatively mild degrees of learning difficulty to profound and multiple disabilities. The wide spectrum of needs are frequently overlapping or interrelated within one individual, although there are also specific needs which relate directly to particular types of impairment.

Children will have needs and requirements which fall into at least one of four areas, frequently more than one. The impact of combinations of need, where these exist, on the child's ability to access the curriculum, should be considered.

The areas of need are:

Communication and interaction – e.g. speech and language difficulties; autistic spectrum disorders.

Cognition and Learning – e.g. dyslexia, dyspraxia, dyscalculia or general learning difficulties.

Social, emotional and mental health – e.g. children who are withdrawn or isolated, disruptive and disturbing, hyperactive and lack concentration or suffer from anxiety or mental health disorders, where these are the main presenting needs.

Sensory and/or physical impairment – e.g. visual impairment, deafness, milder hearing impairment, physical disabilities.

(SEND Code of Practice, 2014)

Children with SEND will be given access to the curriculum through the SEND provision provided by the school as is necessary, as far as possible, taking account of the wishes of the parents and the needs of the individual.

Every effort will be made to educate pupils with SEND alongside their peers in a mainstream classroom setting. In class provision and support are deployed effectively to ensure the curriculum is differentiated where necessary. We set appropriate individual targets that allow children to succeed and we celebrate achievements at all levels.

Regular training and learning opportunities for staff on the subject of SEND are provided in school.

Roles and Responsibilities

Provision for children with SEND is a matter for the school as a whole.

Every teacher is responsible and accountable for all pupils in their class wherever or with whoever the pupils are working

Class teachers

Class teachers are responsible for the initial identification or ongoing assessment of pupils with SEND. Where a child's SEND has been identified at the pre-entry stage, the class teacher will gather information from the pre-school setting, the child's parents and any other involved agencies.

Teachers will use their own professional judgement to make informed decisions about children they consider to be performing at a level significantly different to that of their peers, using information from formative and summative assessment. The assessment process is a continuous cycle of assessing, planning, teaching and reviewing. It focuses on:

- The child's learning characteristics
- The learning environment
- The teaching style most appropriate to facilitate learning

- The task

Assessment opportunities are timetabled within the academic year, including:

- Baseline assessments
- Foundation Stage Profile
- End of term assessments
- End of key stage SATs
- Review of children's targets
- Observations of social, emotional and mental health development.
- P level assessments are ongoing for pupils working towards level 1 in years 1 to 6.

SENDCO/Headteacher

The Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator (SENDCO) is Mrs Amy Butterworth, who has a vast range of experience with SEND. She works alongside the Headteacher who was the previous SENDCO with 16 years of SEND experience.

The SENDCO is responsible for:

- Overseeing the day-to-day operation of the school's SEND policy
- Ensuring that the SEND policy is monitored and reviewed.
- Ensure that the terms and objectives of Statements of SEN or Education, Health and Care Plans are being met.
- Purchasing adequate resources to cater for SEND within school.
- Co-ordinating provision for children with SEND.
- Managing teaching assistants
- Contributing to the in-service training of all staff
- Acting as an intermediary in the communication of information between all those involved – parents, class teacher and other professionals, in respect of children with SEND.
- Advising and supporting other practitioners in the setting.
- Ensuring that relevant background information about individual children with SEND is collected, recorded and updated.
- Ensuring that appropriate plans such as Individual Assessment Plans (IAPs) or Action Plans following a person centered review are in place.
- Liaising with external agencies including the Educational Psychology Service, QEST, H.I. and V.I. services, health and social services.
- Training new staff in the School's SEND processes.

The SENDCO attends the half termly Saddleworth and Lees SENDCO collaborative meetings, SENDCO forum Meetings and the termly Local Authority SENDCO Development Days.

Teaching Assistants

Teaching assistants play an important role in supporting the class teacher in the delivery of a differentiated curriculum that allows accessibility for all. They deliver programmes of work, usually in Literacy, Numeracy or Speech and Language, to children who require additional provision. They are involved in the development of the school's SEND policy and are fully aware of the school's SEND procedures and monitoring arrangements. They are involved with the day to day planning for pupils with SEND, and feedback regarding the pupil's progress to the class teacher. Teaching Assistants are encouraged to attend SEND review meetings for pupils they work with.

The Governing Body

St Agnes' Governors have a statutory duty towards pupils with SEND. The Governing Body works closely with the Headteacher to determine the school's general policy and approach to provision for children with SEND and establish appropriate staffing arrangements. They oversee the funding of SEND through the school's use of teaching assistant support. The Headteacher provides the Governors with a termly update on SEND. Provision within the school through the Headteacher's Report. Mrs Sue Gittins is the appointed governor for SEND. She meets termly with the Headteacher.

Parents and carers

Parents and carers have a wealth of knowledge and information about their child. They can also provide a valuable source of support for their child's learning at home. For these reasons we involve parents as soon as a concern is raised regarding a child's possible SEN. The nature of the child's needs is discussed sensitively with parents and carers and they are given the opportunity to provide any background information which may enhance understanding of the child's needs.

At review meetings with parents/carers we ensure that the child's strengths as well as weaknesses are discussed. Where we make suggestions as to how parents/carers can help at home, these are specific and achievable. Where necessary, materials such as games or worksheets can be sent home for parents and child to work on together.

Outside agencies

St Agnes School has a number of agencies involved in giving advice as to SEND provision for individuals and groups of children. Parental permission is obtained before any referral can be made.

The agencies include:

- Educational Psychology Service
- QEST (SEN Advisory Teachers)
- Hearing Impairment/Visual Impairment Services
- School Nurse and Nurse Consultant
- Speech and Language Therapy Service
- Physiotherapy and Occupational Therapy
- Community Pediatrics

Secondary Schools

The SEND records of all children who have had additional provision made for them at St Agnes school are sent to the SENDCO at the receiving secondary school. For pupils who have statements of SEND, an Educational, Health and Care Plan or those at SEND support, the SENDCO of the receiving school will be invited to the final Review meeting in the Summer term when the child is in Year 6. This enables good liaison and the devising of an effective Transition action plan. As a collaborative, we have a transition project to support children with communication and interaction difficulties, particularly those children with ASD. The children and teaching assistants meet regularly and take part in various activities before making visits to their chosen secondary school.

Arrangements for supporting pupils with SEND

St Agnes follows the Oldham Inclusion Framework 2022 to support children with SEND – this can be found on our website.

Pupils' action plans and targets are implemented in a variety of ways. These may include:

- Simplification of the class teacher's language when giving explanations and instructions.
- Modification of curriculum materials, e.g. enlarged print, or the use of pictures or symbols instead of text.

- Reduced demand for recording, e.g. the use of simplified worksheets, allowing a pupil to be assessed on verbal responses or use IT resources. Alternative forms of recording, such as word-processing, or an adult scribing for the child may also be used.
- Individualised programmes to work on activities provided by specialists, e.g. Speech and Language Therapy generalisation programmes, Occupational Therapy exercises. Where necessary, this may involve withdrawal from class for a short time, usually when the work needs to be done in a distraction-free or very quiet environment.
- Support within specific lessons (usually Literacy or Numeracy) by a teaching assistant. This may be 1:1 or in a small group.
- The use of alternative communications systems such as Signalong or picture exchange.
- Direct input from medical personnel such as Paediatric Physiotherapists or Speech and Language Therapists, carried out in the school setting (usually involving withdrawal from class).

Arrangements for co-ordinating SEND provision

SEND takes a high priority within the School Improvement Plan (SIP). The Action Plan for SEND feeds directly into the SDP, based on an audit for need of SEND provision within St Agnes School, and also the need to have regard to national initiatives.

The SEND policy is reviewed annually in consultation with the school's staff, and the Governing Body. The implementation of the policy is the responsibility of all staff and is monitored by the Headteacher/SENDCO.

We aim to keep all school staff up to date with relevant training and developments to meet the needs of the children with SEND.

We have regular staff meetings where SEND issues are discussed. These are related to specific concerns relevant to the needs identified, or in ensuring that staff keep up to date with information and legislation. The SENDCO attends relevant training and disseminates the details to all the staff as appropriate or signposts relevant SEND focused external training opportunities. The SEND services of the LA, e.g. the QEST Team or the Educational Psychologist allocated to the school, can be asked to give training in school on specific areas.

The transfer of SEND information, when pupils are moving from one class to the next, takes place at the end of the Summer term. Receiving class teachers then have the summer holidays to become familiar with the needs and learning style of the pupil so that they can plan to meet the pupil's needs from the start of the Autumn term.

The SENDCO meets with each class teacher at least each term to discuss any SEND issues and attends the person centred review meetings for children at SEND support or who have a statement/ EHC plan. The SENDCO, alongside the Headteacher, monitors the quality and effectiveness of provision for pupils with SEND through classroom observation.

The support timetable is reviewed annually by the SENDCO and other staff, in line with current pupil needs; educational initiatives such as literacy and numeracy strategies; and the school budget, along with any additional funding allocated to individual pupils by the LA.

The Graduated Approach to SEN Provision

Initial Concern and Monitoring stage

At this stage the class teacher becomes aware, through observation, assessment or in response to parental concern, of the child's SEND. Concerns are discussed with parents/carers, and the pupil's progress is monitored. The class teacher meets the pupil's needs through differentiation by adopting a "high quality teaching" approach:

- Highly focused lesson challenge with clear success criteria
- High expectations of involvement, engagement and interaction for all pupils with their learning
- Appropriate use of questioning, modelling and explaining
- An emphasis on learning through dialogue, with regular opportunities for pupils to talk both individually and in groups
- An expectation that pupils will accept responsibility for their own learning and work independently
- Use of high quality resources to enhance and support the learning experience
- Regular use of encouragement and praise to engage and motivate pupils.

If the child does not make adequate progress, a decision is taken to move the child to:

SEND support

Where it is decided to provide a child with SEND support, the parents must be formally notified. The teacher and the SENDCO should agree, in consultation with the parent and the pupil, the adjustments, interventions and support to be put into place, as well as the expected outcomes such as the impact on progress and development.

At this stage outside agencies may be involved and have direct input into setting targets. Reviews are held each term through a structured conversation approach, a person centered review or a 4 plus 1 question review when parents, staff and outside agencies (if involved) meet to discuss progress and produce a new action plan.

The support provided consists of a four part process- assess, plan, do, review. This is an ongoing cycle to enable provision to be refined and revised as the understanding of the needs of the pupil develops. This cycle allows the identification of those interventions which are the most effective in supporting the pupil to achieve good progress and outcomes.

Assess:

This involves analysing the child's needs using teacher assessment and experience of working with the child, details of previous progress and attainment, comparisons with peers and national data, as well as the views and experiences of parents. The child's views and where relevant, advice from external support services will also be considered.

Plan:

Planning will involve consultation between the teacher, SENDCO and parents usually at the review meeting to agree the adjustments, interventions and support that are required; the impact on progress and development both at school and at home.

Do:

The class teacher remains responsible for working with the child on a day-to-day basis. They will retain responsibility even if the interventions are delivered by the teaching assistant. They will work closely to assess the impact of support and interventions used. Support and advice will be provided by the SENDCO.

Review:

The termly review will evaluate the impact and quality of the support and interventions and will take account of the views of the SENDCO, class teacher, teaching assistant, child, parent and outside agencies. A new action plan will be produced following each review to support the child.

Referral for an Education, Health and Care Plan (EHC)

If a child has lifelong or significant difficulties they may undergo a Statutory Assessment Process which is usually requested by school but can be requested by a parent. The decision to make a referral for an EHC plan will be taken at a review meeting and will combine information from everyone involved with the child. The school is required to submit evidence to the LA'S Statutory Assessment Moderating Panel (SAMP), who meet monthly. They will make a judgement about whether the child's needs can be met through a combination of the resources available to school and extra funding. This judgement is made using the LA's criteria; school has no part in the decision. Parents have a right to appeal against a decision not to initiate a statutory assessment leading to an EHC plan. Once agreed, the school and the child's parents will be involved in developing and producing the plan. It is then reviewed formally on an annual basis, enabling provision for the child to be evaluated and any changes to be agreed such as reducing or increasing levels of support.

Managing children's SEND needs

All children with SEND support or more have a 1 page profile which details important information about the child, including areas of strengths and weaknesses and a current action plan to allow children to achieve the outcomes agreed at the review meeting. Person centered tools may also be used to collect information. High priority SEND support children will also have an individual assessment plan (IAP) which is a working document and will be updated to reflect the current needs of the child. All information is shared at the review meetings.

SEND funding

There are 3 levels of support for children with SEND

1. Element 1 – this is provided for all children.- £4,000 High quality teaching provision will reduce the need for additional resources.
2. Element 2- mainstream schools are expected to contribute the first £6,000 of the additional educational support provision for children with SEND.
3. Element 3- top up funding above £10,000 (element 1 & 2) is applied for through statutory assessment and forms part of the EHC plan

Criteria for exiting the existing level of support

If it is felt that children are making progress which is sustainable then their level of support may be reduced or withdrawn. This may also be applicable if the area of need is well supported through high quality teaching and the SEND need is not creating a barrier to the child's learning in school. If this is the case, then the views of the teacher, SENDCO, teaching assistant, pupil, parents and any professionals involved need to be taken into account. If it is agreed, the pupil will continue to be monitored through pupil progress meetings. If it is felt that the pupil requires additional assistance at a later date then the procedures outlined in this policy will be followed.

Supporting children at school with medical conditions

We recognize that children at school with medical conditions should be properly supported so that they have full access to education, including trips and physical education. Some children with medical conditions may be disabled and where this is the case the school will comply with its duties under the Equality Act 2010. Some may also have SEND and may have a statement or EHC plan which brings together health and social care needs, as well as their special education provision and the SEND Code of Practice (2014) is followed.

The Local Offer

As part of the Code of Practice, local authorities must publish a Local Offer setting out in one place information about provision they expect to be available across education, health and social care for children and young people in Oldham who have SEND or are disabled. The Local Offer has two key purposes

- To provide clear, comprehensive, accessible information about the available provision and how to access it
- To make provision more responsive to local needs and aspirations by directly involving disabled children and young people and those with SEND and their parents with service providers to review its development.

POINT (Parents of Oldham in touch)

POINT is Oldham's established Parent Forum for parents and carers of children and young people aged 0-25 with additional needs, who live in or access services in Oldham. Their aim is to pro-actively represent families, ensuring that parents and carers have greater choice and control to meet their current needs and have a voice in shaping future services. The website is packed with information to support children or young people. They are determined that through their collaborations across Health, Education and Social Care, that together, they can improve the life chances and aspirations of children and young people with additional needs and disabilities.

Complaints procedure

If a parent/carer has any concerns about the SEND provision made for their child, they should raise it with the SENDCO in the first instance. In the unlikely event of issues remaining unresolved at this stage, parents can request details of the school's Complaints Policy from the school office.

This policy was developed and agreed by staff and governors on September 2019
